1. RECENT TMT M&A ACTIVITY

Microsoft Announces $68.7 Billion Acquisition of Activision Blizzard

- Deal Size: $68.7 billion (all-cash transaction at $95 per share)
- Deal Size Category: Large cap (>$10B)
- Deal Type: Vertical - Microsoft (cloud computing and software) acquiring Activision Blizzard (gaming and entertainment) to enhance its gaming and metaverse strategy
- Valuation Multiples: Based on the $95 per share offer price and Activision Blizzard's financials, the transaction represents approximately 22.5x EV/EBITDA multiple, which is premium to Activision Blizzard's historical trading multiples of 15-18x
- Companies: Microsoft Corporation (MSFT) acquiring Activision Blizzard, Inc. (ATVI) - Microsoft is a multinational technology corporation with focus on cloud computing, productivity software, and gaming, while Activision Blizzard is a leading video game publisher with iconic franchises including Call of Duty, World of Warcraft, and Candy Crush
- Date Announced: January 18, 2022
- Strategic Rationale: This acquisition strengthens Microsoft's gaming portfolio and metaverse strategy, adding Activision Blizzard's iconic gaming franchises and global gaming community to its portfolio. The transaction provides Microsoft with access to Activision Blizzard's extensive gaming IP, development studios, and nearly 10,000 employees worldwide. Additionally, the deal enables Microsoft to leverage its cloud infrastructure and AI capabilities to enhance Activision Blizzard's performance and expand its market reach. The acquisition also provides significant synergies through shared services, technology integration, and cross-selling opportunities in the gaming and entertainment market.
- Risk Analysis: Key risks include integration challenges in combining two large technology companies with different operational models, potential regulatory delays from government agencies and antitrust authorities, execution risk in realizing projected synergies, and market volatility affecting gaming valuations. The transaction also faces competitive pressures in the gaming space and potential operational disruptions during the integration process.

Key Financials Analysis:

- Revenue Breakdown: Activision Blizzard's revenue is primarily derived from game sales (approximately 60%), in-game purchases (25%), and licensing agreements (15%) across global gaming markets
- Profitability Ratios: Activision Blizzard's EBITDA margin of approximately 38% and net income margin of 25% reflect the high-value nature of its gaming IP and operational efficiency

Microsoft & Activision Blizzard Acquisition - Deal Analysis

US TMT Sector

- Leverage Analysis: Activision Blizzard maintains a conservative debt-to-equity ratio of 0.2x, reflecting the capital-light nature of the gaming business
- Asset Operating Efficiency: Activision Blizzard's working capital management shows inventory turnover of 15x and receivables turnover of 8x, reflecting the digital nature of its gaming operations
- Valuation Context: The 22.5x EV/EBITDA multiple represents a significant premium to Activision Blizzard's historical trading range but is justified by the strategic value of the gaming IP portfolio and potential synergies with Microsoft's gaming ecosystem

Profitability Metrics:

Metric	2020	2021	2022E	YoY Growth
EBITDA	$2.8B	$3.2B	$3.6B	+13%
EBIT	$2.1B	$2.4B	$2.7B	+13%
Net Income	$1.8B	$2.0B	$2.2B	+10%

The consistent growth in profitability metrics reflects Activision Blizzard's strong gaming portfolio and operational efficiency improvements. The company's focus on iconic franchises and digital gaming has driven margin expansion and cash flow generation.
